

History ■ Fun ■ Art ■ Family

From our origins in 1986 as a small group of people dedicated to researching and publicizing the city's fascinating past, the Hoboken Historical Museum has grown into a vital cultural institution in the city's contemporary life.

We moved to our current location in 2001, thanks to the generosity of many community members, who contributed funds to help us outfit our donated space and supported our fun fundraising events to keep our operating budget in the black.

Today, we welcome dozens of school groups, hundreds of members and thousands of visitors six days a week, with fresh exhibits, talks, educational programs, workshops, films and more.

The Museum is also now staffing the Hoboken Fire Department Museum, at 213 Bloomfield St., on Saturdays & Sundays from 12 noon – 5 pm. It's full of fun and informative displays, including a working 1932 fire engine, vintage uniforms and photographs from over a century of service.

Be a part of Hoboken history...

In our small space in one of the oldest buildings on the waterfront, the Hoboken Historical Museum showcases the city's rich heritage and hosts some of its most popular contemporary events. Through award-winning exhibitions and publications, a dedicated team of professionals and an army of volunteers collaborate to bring interesting aspects of Hoboken's past to light. We collect, preserve and interpret artifacts and oral histories, both historic and contemporary, and host guest lectures, films, readings and concerts. Our Upper Gallery features local artists whose work interprets Hoboken and our area in a range of visual media.

Our support comes in part from public grants and fundraising events such as the annual Gala, Secret Garden Tour, House Tour, and more. But a major source of our funding comes from donations by local businesses and individual members of the community like you.
